

SIMMONS GOT POSSESSION OF COVETED PAPER

Steals a March on Smoot and Has Possession of Tariff Analysis.

Washington, July 8.—Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, turned a trick on the Republican leaders today when he got his hands on a lengthy analysis of the Democratic bill which had been prepared under the direction of Senator Smoot pointing out what the Republicans claim are serious defects in the measure.

Senator Smoot had delayed for a month the introduction of the analysis despite insistence of Senator Simmons that it be printed. On the last day of the caucus when the Republicans were assured that the Democrats were through with the bill, Senator Smoot consented to send the document in for the printer. But the Democrats have not yet printed their bill and have a day or two to make corrections and hush at their opponents, inasmuch as debate will not begin until next week.

Knowing that the Republican document might contain valuable pointers, Senator Simmons directed the finance subcommittee to go over the schedules today and pore over the Smoot analysis to check up with the subcommittee tomorrow.

Senator Simmons heard some weeks ago that Republican leaders had cautioned Senator Smoot to hold back the analysis.

"Don't send it in yet," they urged. "It will give us away."

Then the finance committee chairman decided to lie in wait for the document, and today he pounced on it before it went to the printing office. He found the result of Senator Smoot's careful labors of a month aided by a corps of experts and assistants.

"He said some of the analysts point out errors that could be corrected, but that much of the document was found to be argument."

MANY OFFICES ARE VACANT

Governor and Council to Meet Today and Shake the Plum Tree for Democratic Office Seekers

Concord, July 9.—The Governor and Council will meet today at the capitol to make some long over-due appointments to state offices. A lengthy session is looked for and an announcement of the successful candidates is anticipated from the executive office. The principal vacancies that will probably be filled are the remaining judges of the district courts; the superintendent of public instruction to succeed Henry C. Morrison, whose term has run out; and the new position of purchasing agent.

A hot fight is on for the three places on the license commission, but it is doubtful if these are filled tomorrow. There is so much controversy over them that it may take considerable more dickering to line things up. Manchester Democrats are strong in the demand for a Manchester man on the commission, although the original plans of the state machine did not call for any of the places going to the Queen City. The followers of Major Thomas H. Madigan, former chairman of the Democratic state committee; John J. McGovern, a brother of Representative Phil J. McGovern of the eighth Manchester ward; and Senator W. S. Joyal from the eighth district in Manchester, are all clamoring for their favorites.

A considerable number of politicians arrived in town Tuesday and began to talk the situation over. The rumor is that the executive body will transact more appointment business than it has for some time. Little has been done for three weeks. The Governor has returned from the Gettysburg celebration considerably rested up, and has been kept for a few days the solicitations of his many friends for this appointment and that.

The most important of the district court judgeships to be filled is that of Manchester, where the candidates are John W. Center, for two years chairman of the Democratic city organization; Representative Cyrenius J. Belanger, a Progressive leader; Timothy J. Howard and James A. Broderick. Many other courts also have judges and associate judges to be appointed.

Those who have conversed with the Governor, since he returned from Gettysburg, says he is still of the opinion that it is better to go slow and figure things carefully out rather than to put through appointments at the rate clamored for by the faithful. The Governor's political advisors think that by handing out a few plums at a time, a line can be secured on how they take with the people and late action on others may be followed with a view to covering up holes in the ditches.

LITTLE GIRL IS BLINDED BY EXPLOSION

Was Trying to Cut Acid Golf Ball When Missile Exploded.

Little Annie Johnson, the 8 year old daughter of Mrs. Stacey Angewski of 212 Woodbury avenue, was totally blinded Tuesday afternoon when an acid golf ball exploded in her face, burning her forehead and filling her eyes with formic acid. The little girl's brother returned last week from St. Paul's preparatory school at Concord, and had a dozen of the balls in a golf bag. The bag was standing in a corner in the sitting room and the child found the balls in the pocket. Taking one out she attempted to cut it in two with a paring knife, and the ball exploded. The girl screamed and her mother rushed into the room. Water was poured on the burns until Dr. A. J. Lancia arrived. The physician, who is an eye and ear specialist, immediately saw that the child was severely burned and ordered her rushed to the Portsmouth Hospital. After the formula acid had been neutralized little Anna was placed in a dark room, as the doctor believes there is a slight chance for the right eye. The acid did not touch any part of the child's body except the forehead and eyes.

BIG INCREASE. In Fish Eggs Planted by Fishery Bureau.

The year just closed established a record for the United States bureau of fisheries in the number of fish eggs taken and planted. It ran to the enormous total of 3,410,000,000, which broke the record made in the previous year by 173,000,000. The largest number of any kind was in flatfish, of which 800,000,000 eggs were planted.

During the year there was an increased capture of black-spotted trout, chinook salmon, haddock, striped bass and whitefish eggs and a decrease in those of the lake herring, shad, yellow perch and lobster.

To increase the supply of lobsters along the New England coast, the bureau is considering the establishment in Rhode Island of a plant for lobster breeding. It is proposed to keep the young lobsters in captivity until they can defend themselves against attack, or until they have passed what the experts call the fourth stage of their existence.

The bureau now has two lobster hatcheries, one in Maine and the other in Massachusetts, but at neither are there facilities for breeding work.

Lamar Tells Lobby Hunters He Wished to Bring Wall Street Men Into Opening

Washington, July 8.—The senate lobby investigating committee took a look at Wall street today through the spectacles of David Lamar. The dapper operator who admits that he handled about in the market place the name of men high in congress, took the committee completely into his confidence. For all the machinations he contrived there were after all he swore for two reasons. He wished to cause an explosion which would bring the Wall street men whom he felt were antagonistic to him into the open, and he wished to insure the re-employment of Edward Lantier, his lawyer friend who had fallen into

BOGUS CHECK WORKER IS ARRESTED

At Chicago for Obtaining Money From Local Merchants.

Chief Hurley of the police department was notified today by the Chief of Police, Abbott, of Fort Wayne, Ind., of the arrest of Roy L. Bates, a noted check wanted in this city for forgery.

On June 12 Bates secured $50 or more on a worthless check from John Turley and quickly left this city. He appeared in a sailor's rig with the hat band reading U. S. S. South Dakota. The check was on the National Capital Bank of Washington, D. C., made out to himself and signed Capt. John Ryan.

From the correspondence of the police at Fort Wayne, Bates was arrested at his game in Chicago and made a confession in which he admitted he had secured money all over the country by forgery.

People connected with the navy who saw the man while in this city are positive that he was once in the service.

He will be prosecuted in the west. The local police at once issued a warrant to be held over him with the hope of getting him later on when he gets through serving time in the State of Indiana.

SWIVEL CHAIR ADMIRALS GET A SHOCK

Promotions Will Only Come to Those Who Have Seen Sea Service.

Another shock was given the swivel chair Admirals of the navy, when Secretary of the Navy Daniels declared that hereafter no captain will be promoted to the rank of admiral merely because he has reached that grade through length of service, and his ranking in the list of officers. He must display qualities to make him a "fighting admiral," one who can be of use to the nation in time of war.

For many years promotion to the rank of admiral have been as regular as clock work; provided his record was clear. Some of the admirals in the navy today have had comparatively little sea service, and Mr. Daniels is going to be sure that there is no more of this type.

The secretary made the declaration in discussing the case of Captain Temple Potts who proposes to fight his recent retirement by the plucking board before congress. Captain Potts was denied promotion to the rank of admiral two months ago, by Secretary Daniels because he had only seven months sea service as Captain. The Secretary declared Potts cannot appeal from a decision of the plucking board which is a law. Even congress cannot restore Captain Potts to the navy without providing new regulations, which would overturn the whole system of conducting the department, the secretary said.

Bishop Issues Circular to Candidates Among Clergy.

Relative to the selection of a priest to fill the vacancy at St. John's parish Concord, made vacant by the death of the late Rt. Rev. Mgr. E. M. O'Callaghan.

Bishop Guerlin has addressed a letter to all of the priests in the New Hampshire diocese who have been ordained for ten years, and are eligible for the rectorship. The priests have until July 12 to announce whether they are candidates for the position, and a month will probably be allowed for preparation for the nomination, which will be held the middle of August.

ANOTHER STATION.

Wanted On the Portsmouth and Dover Branch.

A petition is being circulated in Dover and the suburbs of that city asking that the Boston & Maine railroad establish another station on the Portsmouth and Dover Branch near the Catholic cemetery between Cushing and Sawyers. Within a short time the railroad has added four stations between Dover and Portsmouth as follows: Rollins Farm, Hill-ton, Bellamy, and Piscataqua. According to report it is likely that the railroad will deny the request of the petitioners for a station at this point from the fact that stations now exist on both sides of the location in question.

SPORTS AT THE PLAYGROUND

Girls sports at the playground were entered into with a great deal of enthusiasm and the interest kept up until after the closing hour.

The girls are divided into two classes, all thirteen years old and over in one class and all from eight to twelve in another.

Whipple school has held the Hokey cup for two years and the other schools are vying up to the idea that they had just as well step in and get it. The Parochial school is leading in points thus far. The result of the contest this afternoon was as follows:

Parochial 32, Whipple 56, Farrington 26, Haven 16.

Miss Cloud has chosen Tuesday and Thursday of each week as field day and these are red letter days on the playground.

The classes in basketry, doll furniture and clay are progressing nicely. Basket class numbers 39, the furniture makers 35. The clay work is given on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings. The classes in Indian Club swinging and Folk dancing are conducted each morning from 10:30 to 11:30.

There is a charge of 10c for the basket work since the committee is not able to furnish more than the instructor. The children also furnish the goods for the doll furniture. Some one has been kind enough to send quite a little goods for the use of some of the children.

Head work will be introduced into the work this year.

DIMMED ARE THE LEEVE LIGHTS

A Singularly Well Painted Picture On the Missouri River

(From the Kansas City Star.)

The North Side. That is what Kansas City calls that part of itself which lies below Eighth street. The Kansas City of fifty years ago which lay entirely below Eighth street, called the north side The Levee. The difference, the difference was found along the river at the foot of Main street last night.

The Missouri river is a silent, slow moving stream. By day its surface is covered by the many sounds of commerce, the whistles of steamships, the hum of machinery, the shouting of stevedores, along the wharf. At night the lonely boat on an engine over in Clay county before drawing its string of lighted beads over the Hannibal bridge only makes louder the silence of the river. The lights across the North Kansas City bridge and the intercity viaduct over into Kansas that shine through the dark like Japanese lanterns hanging from the sky dimly accentuate the white colored darkness of the levee.

The ships hang silently at the wharf. The steel barges creek a little with the movement of the waves and a little wind whips the larger rope dunnage against the metal roof. Over on the steamer A. M. Scott and the two government boats, the Katherine and the Lieut. Augustus, a yellow light seeps from the cabin. The watchmen are there but the crews have gone uptown. The engines are dead and the smokestacks without smoke.

Over in a little saloon on the corner there is a bell-ringer who when you enter. The barkeeper takes your order and the three men at the rail begin to talk again in low tones.

"What makes it so quiet down here?"

The barkeeper has repeated your question, looking at you meanwhile with certain eyes requiring if you are anything other than what you represent yourself to be.

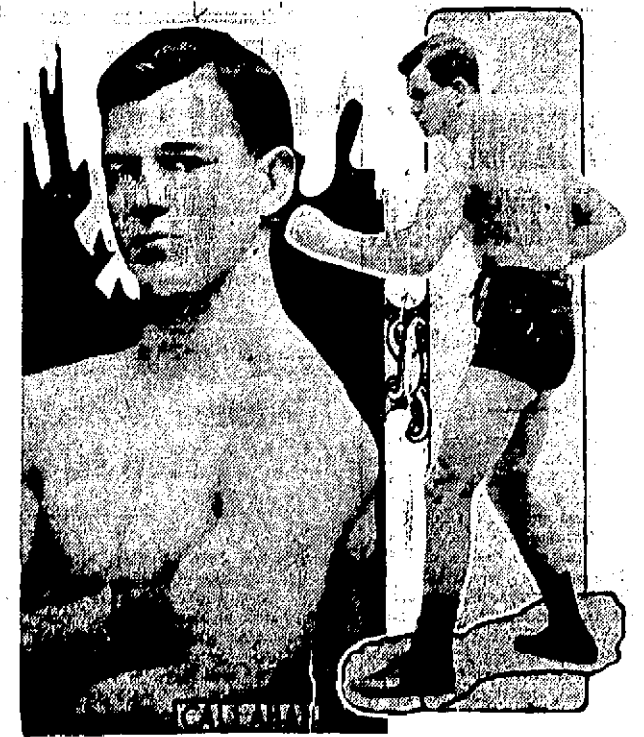

He too, in quiet while he wipes the spilled liquor from the counter. Then he explains. And what he tells you, though he doesn't know is the story of a community's evolution. All peoples have one beginning for a tale.

"Once upon a time this was Kansas City down here." The others look at his mournful tone. I wonder then, but I've heard some of the old timers tell about it. The money that folks spend uptown nowadays, they used to spend down here, they say. And it wasn't no lighter by day then it was by night. This was the lightest place in town, this was. And when you wanted a good time you came down to the boat landing, where all the strangers were."

He was really giving the end to a fictitious gold.

"It's work now. Work all day, and when night comes, and your good things you take 'em uptown. There ain't no mousers around here. They're all up around Fifth street. And when quelling time comes and the work's done the noise is done too. He was really giving the end to a kind of epic, the epic of the Kansas City that had moved and that made the playground at night a mile farther north than it had 50 years ago.

For the levee is now a place of commerce. Its wharf house is strictly for business. Even the old negro roundabouts who used to unload the cargoes, singing as they marched in single file, have given way to stern

Patsy Callahan, Irish Champion,
Would Like to Show Kilbane Who's Who in the Featherweight Line

Brooklyn, July 9.—Johnny Kilbane, the featherweight champion announced recently that there was no one in his class who could make him extend himself to win so he would rest up until some good boy popped up into the line. Patsy Callahan, the Irish champion, now a resident of this city, says that there is no need of his being idle and incidentally wishes to know what brand of dope Kilbane smokes. Patsy recently offered that he would like nothing better than a chance at the holder under any weight or any conditions. Mr. Kilbane may name. Patsy also for-feels there would be a new champion after a meeting with the Cleveland. Callahan has been coming to the front rapidly of late, and there are many who believe he would more than make it interesting for Kilbane. The Irish champion has a long list of victories to his credit and has met nearly all the stars in his division. Callahan is 24 years old and hails from Tipperary, Ireland. He is 5 feet 6 inches in height and is considered by the best critics to be one of the best physically developed boxers in the world. He can make 122 pounds flimsy without any trouble.

FOR GETTYSBURG

Going to Gettysburg? Are you? What for? What for?

To see the place where I marched with a gun

And searched my flesh in the boiling mud

Where I fought and bled and lost and won

In that wonderful Civil war.

Going from the North to Gettysburg? What for? What for?

See if Little Round Top has grown in size

To see the place where the vells got wise

To see the stones on the monument rise

Because of scenes in the Civil war.

Going to Gettysburg from the west? What for? What for?

Going to look for a man in gray,

Who lost his leg in the fight that day

When he merged from the peach orchard on his way

To Dunker Hill in the Civil war.

Going to Gettysburg from the south? What for? What for?

Going to shake the palm of the victor—

The blue one that on the stone fence sat

And blazed at my shirt till it got blood wet

On that day in the Civil war.

Going to Gettysburg from the east? What for? What for?

To look at the names on the monuments spread

Of the brave and the blue of the noble dead.

With feelings of thoughtfulness that to peace it led.

From the days of the Civil war.

And now for Gettysburg north and south:

And this is what we are going for:

Not for pleasure or recreation.

Not for fatigue and perspiration.

But to cement the united nation

With truths of the Civil war.

BITS OF SPORT

What Is Taking Place in the Base Ball Realm.

There seems to be a nation-wide crusade on against gambling at base ball games. The move was inaugurated in the big league cities and is now being carried on around the minor league circuits. Worcester is the latest town to get on the trail of the do and don't fellows and the police there promise to carry on the work till this disagreeable feature is stamped out.

That it takes more than the reputation established in the previous year to win a pennant, is shown by the work of the Boston Red Sox. Though the logical choice of many to repeat in the American league, the champions have been a dismal failure. Errors at critical times and the inability to hit in the pinches have worked havoc with the team's chances.

The statement that George Brickley, the former Everett High star, would join Connie Mack's club immediately is a little misleading. The boy will spend the summer in New England, probably playing with the York Beach nine and will report to the Athletics in September. He has a contract which assures him being kept with the Athletics for one year and if he went to the club now he would be in line for the world's championship money, provided the Mackmen cap the bunfing in the American league. And about everyone admits they will.

Base ball statisticians are wondering if the Western league holds the largest number of base hits ever recorded in the games of last Sunday, also if the total three base hit value of the hits is the largest ever attained. Here are the facts: Eight games played; hits, 116 singles, thirty-two two baggers, four triples, ten home runs; total hits, 161; total base value, 231 bases. The Des Moines-Des Moines pair of games and the largest number of hits made fifty-five. The Sioux City-Topeka slugfest had the largest number of bases, eighty-four. The runs of the eight games totaled 109.

Paul Richards, the sensational Manchester High twirler, who enters Exeter next fall will pitch his first game for the York Beach team in the middle of July, presumably the 14th. He was originally scheduled to twirl the opening game at Woonsocket but was unable to make the trip. He has since written Manager Young that he will report sometime this month.

John "Kiddo" Barrett, another Manchester boy, formerly of St. Joseph's High, will also don a York Beach uniform this month. He will be seen in action the latter part of July, doing a stunt in the box. The York Beach team resembles very much the pick of the cream of Manchester.

This week an effort will be made by the New England League leaders to shift the club which now represents Fall River back to Haverhill, from which city it was taken by Dr. D. F. Cloughy before the season's opening. The club at Fall River has been losing money all the season; in fact there are only four clubs in the league that have broken even thus far this season, and those in control of the league feel that the Fall River club cannot last longer in its present location. Overtures have been made to several men in Haverhill known to be interested in base ball to take back to Haverhill the franchise that was shifted to Fall River.

THE SCHOOL BOARD HOLD BUSY SESSION

Schools Unable to Handle Large Increase in Attendance--New School-house Must Come Soon.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Instruction was held on Tuesday evening and in the absence of Mayor Badger Mr. Hartford was chosen chairman. The usual batch of bills were read and approved and the finance report for the month made. It was as follows:	Light and Power ..... $9.00
Expenses for June	Janitors' supplies ..... 22.91
Expenses of General Control	Other expenses of operation ..... $0.00
Clerk ..... $55.00
Treasurer ..... 41.60
General office expenses ..... 16.80
	$113.40
Expenses of Instruction
Salaries of Teachers and Superintendent ..... $4097.00
Text books ..... 6.91
Pupils' Supplies ..... 51.68
Other expenses of instruction 177.51
	$4242.99
Expenses of operation of plant
Salaries of Janitors ..... $963.90
Fuel ..... 2778.63

It was explained that there would be only five young ladies in the senior class of the evening school at the Farragut school and this would mean that additional teachers would be required. The Board of Instruction was authorized to make arrangements for the same.

The Third District committee reported that they had secured P. D. Cochran, as janitor of the Haven school and he was elected.

Supt. Pringle made a very interesting report of the school attendance and overcrowded condition of the schools and the outlook for even more crowding this fall. In the past year there was an attendance of 1669 against 1559 of last year and a decrease in the number of absences down to 169, the lowest average absence for years. The per cent of attendance this year was 93.98 per cent which is almost two per cent over that of last year. The per cent of attendance is probably the best in the state. Mr. Pringle figuring on the average increase expects an enrollment next September of 1918 or over a hundred more than last year. At the present time all of the schools with the exception of the Haven have far more than they were ever intended to seat and how the extra hundred are to be cared for is bothering the Board. While it may be possible by more crowding to handle the scholars it is but a short time before a new school building will have to be provided. In addition to the enrollment mentioned above there are about 500 in the Parochial school, making the per cent of school children to the population exceptionally high.

Any time you want to take a drive just telephone 3, and Hislop will do the rest.

BOSTON ELECTRIC ROAD MEN WILL NOT STRIKE

Boston, July 8.—Sec. James A. McKibbin of the Chamber of Commerce at 4.38 this afternoon gave out a statement that a satisfactory method of arbitration has been arranged and accepted by Messrs. Richards and Snow, representing the management of the L. road, and Messrs. Valley and Day, representing the Carmen's Union.

As a result of this agreement Messrs. Richards and Valley entered into conference to select the third arbitrator. The committee is confident that this action on their part under the conditions agreed to removes all possibility of a strike or any other drastic action on the part of either side.

PRESIDENT PLAYS GOLF AT DARTMOUTH

Hanover, N. H., July 8.—President Wilson tried another golf links today—the nine hole course at Dartmouth College. He left Cornish early and motoring 30 miles over green hills and valleys, arrived here before noon. The college town is filled with summer school students and some of the ex-eds tripped enthusiastically across the links to greet the President from the roadway groups of people watched the play.

The President played a fair game, but the links were much more difficult than the Woodstock course where he was yesterday. Dr. C. A. Grayson again accompanied the President. There were no caddies about when they arrived, and a secret service man and one of the chauffeurs volunteered for the task.

As the President played his second round, a little boy trailed him, carrying a big American flag. More "caddies" came up and shook hands with the President just as he reached the green. He holed with a neat putt. "Fine, fine!" exclaimed one of the girls.

"O, I don't always do as well as that," said the President modestly, but he smiled appreciatively upon his feminine "gallery."

Maxine Elliott Theatre with William Courteney and Doris Keane in the two leading roles, has been temporarily discontinued. It is, however, officially announced that "Romance" will reopen in New York at this same playhouse before the inauguration of the out of town tour.

Charlotte Greenwood, who has been engaged for "The Passing Show of 1913," the next Winter Garden production, gave a party a few days ago at her home in Bensonhurst to observe her twenty-third birthday. Among the invited guests were Gertrude Hoffman, who gave Charlotte her first engagement in the chorus, Ned Weyburn, who taught her to carry a sword and Sam Bernard, who discovered her longitudinal kick.

Low Fields and the "All Aboard" Company Entertain Foreign Sailors.

Low Fields and the members of the company appearing in "All Aboard," at the new Low Fields 41th Street Roof Garden gave a special entertainment last evening (Sunday evening) for the officers and sailors of the Brazilian and Argentine Warships now in New York Harbor and also for the officers and sailors of the U. S. Battleship, Arkansas, which is here to honor the foreign vessel of war. The entertainment, of course, was strictly private and the only people admitted were the men actually in uniform or who could show positive credentials to prove their connection with their ships. ## DELIGHTED WITH CAMP AT GETTYSBURG

Mr. M. H. Bell, adjutant of the Storer Post, No. 1, G. A. R., arrived home Tuesday evening from Gettysburg, having stopped over in New York for a day. He is enthusiastic over the success of the reunion, saying that in his opinion there was anything like it in the world. The veterans were given every attention and the camp was a model, and despite the hot weather there were remarkably few that died. The oldest veteran was 112 years old, and the average age was over 70. It was a great reunion and the "Rebels" were just as much pleased with it as the veterans, said Mr. Bell.

Argentine Naval Officers Attend "The Purple Road."

Fifteen officers from the Argentine Training Ship, Presidente Sarmiento, which is now in New York Harbor, attended the production of "The Purple Road" at the Casino Theatre one night recently occupying three boxes. Those boxes had been decorated with Argentine banners especially for the occasion and there is no question about the enthusiasm with which the young Naval heroes of the South American Republic regarded the performance. When Napoleon first appeared upon the stage, they clapped vociferously, for it must be remembered that the great Emperor of the French is a near-ally among all the Latin races.

100th Performance of "The Purple Road."

The 100th performance of "The Purple Road" took place at the Casino Theatre last Friday evening.

BEACH LOTS FOR SALE

Wallis Sands, Rye, N. H.

This beach, the finest on the New Hampshire coast, is especially desirable for the children, and is known everywhere as the children's beach. It is a clean, fine, sandy beach, free from rocks, is one mile long, crescent in shape, and wide and flat, with perfectly safe bathing at all times of tide. There is good fishing from the rocks at the extreme ends of the beach, and a most excellent hotel, under able management. Telephones and electric lights can be had in all the cottages. All supplies are brought to the door, and it is within easy communication with Portsmouth, N. H. The lots have a frontage on the beach and ocean, are high and dry, and extend back to the boulevard. Excellent water is found on every lot by simply driving a well some fifteen feet. The water is pure and ice cold, and has the taste and appearance of spring water. A plan of the lots, and full information can be had by applying to

The Modesty of Governor Sulzer.

Governor Sulzer, who has been blushing unseen for several months at Albany, and who, with unostentatious dignity, has been endeavoring to usurp the power which has so long been Murphy's, proclaimed, a few days ago, his masterpiece of modesty.

"Never," he announced, in bashfully denying his alleged culpability in a breach of promise suit, "Never in my life have I done anything of which I am ashamed."

Henry Clay himself could not have surpassed that. Now, it is only just that this noble, this unspotted character should no longer be allowed to waste his sweetness on the hot air of Albany. Let him be honored as is his due. Raise—raise him, howsoever reluctant—from his obscurity and let his example of wondrous purity be a model for the youth of the country who are too rapidly coming to believe that politicians are one and all blatant, self seeking demagogues.

It may be hard at first for even the most trusting of the youth so taught to believe that, while the average man, with a normally developed conscience, does something every day of which he is inwardly ashamed, Sulzer's every act, trifling and momentous alike, has been guided by Right and Duty.

Yet such is incontestably the case. The Governor himself blushing announced it. Possibly his engrossing activities have given him no opportunity to cultivate a sense of shame. But such an idea is most disrespectful—shame on him who thinks it!

Gambling and Baseball.

Eastern papers record the fact that the parasitic gentry who sucked the blood out of racing in this country have now bestowed their favors on baseball. So much so, indeed, that President Ban Johnson and other American league officials have taken steps to suppress professional gambling at the games; 38 gamblers were arrested in Philadelphia last week and another lot seized in New York. The ball magnates appear to have profited by the lessons of the past, the scandal of which is still vividly remembered by many "fans." It may be less easy to corrupt baseball now than in the old days, but the managers are wise enough to see that where there is professional gambling there will be suspicion, and they are determined to take no chances.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Growth of a Healthy Youngster.

The parcel post will take an additional stature today, when the rule requiring special stamps is rescinded, the insurance plan becomes effective and the collect on delivery regulations go into effect. In six months the incomplete and admittedly experimental operation of the system has shown how well advised were the advocates of its adoption. Under the new regulations its usefulness will be greatly increased, and they unquestionably presage the further extension of its facilities in the immediate future. It took the country a good many years to obtain this well high essential service, but it will not take many more for it to develop logically and naturally to its highest usefulness.—New York Sun.

Irreverent Marriages.

Many clergymen of Newburyport were loud in their condemnation of the public marriage at Salisbury Beach last Sunday. This condemnation was not confined to any one creed, but was voiced by most of the religious bodies of the city—with the exception of the shameless minister who offered himself to be a participant in the sensational episode. When the public will allow such a shocking performance as this defilement of a ceremony which is still vested with solemnity, there need be no surprise at the modern American tendency to look lightly at all that concerns home and family ties.—Lowell Sun.

The Eugenic Law.

Medical science recognizes increasingly the virtues of prolepsis, and it is to the credit of the modern physician that he is laboring zealously to deprive himself of his occupation by supporting legislation that is preventive of the scourge of diseases upon which war has been waged by mankind for innumerable centuries. Largely for his altruism the law of the state is brought into harmony with the natural law of the survival of the fittest.—Philadelphia Ledger.

All Pretty Much Alike.

It's a pretty comforting thing to be informed of the lives of all sorts of people. One's own life takes on a far more tolerable aspect when we discover the drawbacks that attend other lives that we think must be freed of all cares and burdens. After all, king or chauffeur, millionaire or motorman, however we may be split up and divided, the common human lot possesses us all. We all have the same trials and hungers. The only difference is that a few of our fellow mortals think in larger figures, that is all.—Portland Express.

As President Wilson Appeared at Gettysburg With the Veterans on the Nation's Holiday.

Photos copyright, 1913, by American Press Association.

President Wilson appeared at the Gettysburg reunion as scheduled on the Fourth of July and delivered his address to the veterans. These pictures record the fact and complete the pictorial side of the big celebration. In one he is shown being escorted to the mammoth tent where he spoke. The other shows him reading his address. The president's visit was the culminating feature of the fiftieth anniversary, which will go down in history of the country as the most unusual and impressive celebration of its kind ever held.

ADMITS MOTIVE WAS REVENGE

ing could bring him back again.

He was only playing the Wall street game, he said when he made such frequent use of the telephone and talked about what might be done in Washington through prominent members of congress, but except for that he thought the end justified the means. The explosion had occurred he added, and his enemies had been dragged into the open to prove charges circulated for many years in the financial district against himself and Landerbach. He summed up his whole story in a few words when he said:

"It was the Wall street game I was playing. In Wall street you don't act like you do on a New Jersey farm." Later he added bitterly: "I am the only villain in Wall street. All the others are actuated by the highest ideals."

Landerbach's examination was finished today and both he and Landerbach were allowed to go with the understanding that if wanted they would appear again.

With their departure the committee took up sugar lobbying again for 2 hours, with a short excursion in the land of the wool lobby.

Charles H. Wassett, a Washington attorney who lives in Cuba took up the sugar story again. He told of an unsuccessful effort he made to get Cuban sugar planters to put up $25,000 for the expenses of a free sugar campaign in Washington to offset the efforts of the anti-free sugar. He declared that his efforts failed after he had believed he successfully launched, and gave as his opinion that the sugar trust had been responsible.

He said that the trust attacked this and by their influence with the Cuban banks, which would force the growers to do what they wished by refusing to extend them necessary credit. He added that the agrarian league to which every Cuban grower feels obliged to belong was dominated by the trust and that acting in concert with the combine's wishes it had opposed a free sugar campaign.

Westcott was put through a searching cross examination by Senator Cummins about three statements. He finally said he personally did not know anything about trust domination in Cuba, but that his statements were made on information given by growers.

Senator Nelson caused much amusement when he questioned Westcott about a letter he wrote to the secretary to the President, Taft, in the winter urging that President Wilson keep up the fight for free sugar. The witness said that shortly after he wrote the letter the lines of the free sugar advocates in the ways and means committee of the house were attacked.

"Your letter stiffened up the free sugar fight then?" said Senator Nelson.

"Well it stiffened shortly after," he wrote it.

"Are you sure that the President ever read it?"

"No sir."

"Well, it acted as a sort of starch on those wavering members of the committee," continued Senator Nelson, while the chairman rapped for order and stopped the laughter.

"Oh no," the witness said with a show of embarrassment.

Senator Cummins said he could understand the attitude of most men on the sugar question, but was greatly surprised to see an American interested in securing free sugar because it would benefit the Cuban planters.

Westcott admitted that that was his political object. He said he never expected a large fee from the conduct of the proposed campaign.

The committee room was filled all day long with members of the senate and house.

William Whitman of Boston, one of the men interested in wool under subpoena, will take the stand tomorrow morning before the senate committee.

My Symphony.

To live content with small means, to seek elegance rather than luxury, and refinement rather than fashion; to be worthy, not respectable, and wealthy, not rich; to study hard, think quickly, talk gently, act frankly; to listen to stars and birds, to babes and seagulls, with open heart; to bear all cheerfully, do all bravely, await occasions, hurry never—in a word, to let the spiritual, unbidden and unconscious grow up through the common; this is to be my symphony.—Channing.

CURRENT OPINION

THE VALUE OF RESTRAINT

Now the very foundation of our free institutions was the belief, not in the march of a triumphant democracy, not in the march of popular feeling and popular conduct unrestrained, but that man could restrain themselves, that great principles could be written into our national life which could steer and guide and restrain and hold us and tend us, free from anarchy, full of liberty with life and property, and everything that blesses mankind saved and secured.

Look around in this great land today. Where is there a country like it? The world has never seen the equal of it and the world will never see its endurance if the American people forget the foundation principles of their free institutions because of what they imagine to be an evil here and an evil there, and some other evil, all subject to correction by the votes of an enlightened people, and will attribute all to their form of government and seek to pull down the pillars of the temple in order that they may destroy what they suppose to be a rat within the house.

Let us crown down this attempt which is growing in the land. Many thoughtless people today suppose that everything that is wrong is wrong in the institutions, when without the institutions there would be no right and everything wrong.—Edward Douglass White, Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court.

How Newspapers Can Aid Advertisers.

A former advertising manager of one of the largest drug concerns in the United States, in a forceful speech before a New York Club, said newspapers were in a position to render advertisers valuable co-operation.

It was his experience that his salesmen were not able, generally speaking, to report conditions in local fields as they should be reported.

The editor of the local paper, he maintained, was best qualified to supply national advertisers with reliable information concerning his particular locality.

This is a subject worth thoughtful consideration by publishers generally, and it should also bring to the mind of the national advertiser the universal usefulness of the daily newspaper—the one medium of communication with everyone, everywhere.

FORT TEAM DEFEATED BY THE ELKS

Errors Plentiful on the Part of Both Teams at Tuesday Night's Game.

The Elks kept up their winning streak in the Sunset League on Tuesday evening by defeating the Fort Constitution team by a score of 5 to 2. Errors were plentiful on both sides. For the winners Sarette pitched good ball, allowing only two scattered hits and striking out six. Hoffman, who pitched for the soldiers, was touched up for four hits, including a double in the third inning. This, coupled with several costly errors on the part of the soldiers, netted four runs for the Elks. For the winners the best work was done by Swasey, Sanfalcon and Derahen. For the losers Hoffman, Fredericks and Falk excelled. The score:

PRESIDENT MELLEN RESIGNS FROM BOSTON & MAINE R. R.

Morris MacDonald of the Maine Central Elected in His Place.

Boston, July 8. Charles S. Mellen today resigned the office of president of the Boston and Maine railroad. The announcement was made from the office of the press agent late this afternoon and was a genuine surprise to officials of the Boston and Maine as well as to the general public.

Mr. Mellen will be succeeded as president of the Boston and Maine by Morris MacDonald of Portland, Me., now vice president and general manager of the Maine Central railroad. He will take charge of the property within a few days.

Mr. Mellen will continue to be a director and a member of the executive committee of the Boston and Maine.

The reason given for Mr. Mellen's retirement was that he desired to devote his entire time to his position as president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

DISAPPEARING GUNS

Ease With Which these Coast Defense
Monsters are Operated

Three kinds of big guns are used on the coast to defend us from hostile invaders. When a gun is fired, it an embankment or parapet it is called a barbette. The earliest guns were of this order. The parapets were notched so that the firing could be done over their top. When the gun is discharged through a port or hole in the embankment it is called a casemate. The newest kind of heavy artillery is the disappearing gun, which drops back behind its wall as soon as it is discharged.

The man who aims the gun has a little platform to one side of the machine. Things are arranged so that you can control all operations of the gun from where he stands. Electricity is used for bringing the gun up and getting it into position and all the mechanism can be regulated by the gunner. So wonderfully is the big machine under control that it cannot be fired by any person whatsoever unless it is raised up and in firing position. When it is not in firing position it is called "out of battery."

So nicely is the gun mounted that all its great mass can be handled by two men. From the time they are loading it until the gun is mounted and ready to fire only six seconds intervene. One of the big guns can discharge a thousand pound projectile every fifty two seconds and put a bulletship out of commission six miles away.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Mary J. Newton.

The ever busy angel of death has again invaded a home long established in this city and removed therefrom a loving wife and mother, Mrs. Mary Jane, wife of Elvin Newton who passed away at her home on Gardner street on Tuesday afternoon surrounded by those near and dear to her.

Mrs. Newton was a native of the Isle of Shoals and came to this city forty-one years ago. In every relation of life she was loved and admired by everybody that had the pleasure of her acquaintance. In her friendships there was always a true echo of sincerity and benevolence. As a benefactor her heart was as overflooded with the milk of human kindness that neither race, color or station appealed to her so long as a living creature needed her aid and her sympathy. She was at home with the young as well as the old and to the childhood companions of her family her motherly kindness, her counsel and her generosity will ever be sacred. While the hearts of those near to her in life now bleed from the shock of the loss of her companionship, they must find consolation in the thought that this good woman is entitled to the reward promised the worthy. Besides her husband there left to mourn her loss are five sons: Elvin H. of Manchester; Sherman T., Frank S., Fred G. and Ralph A., of this city; three daughters, Mrs. Alonzo Smith, Mrs. Thomas A. Ward, and Mrs. Roy Ward; twenty-two grandchildren, and seven great grandchildren.

ERIE WITHDRAWS FROM CONFERENCE— MAY MEAN STRIKE

New York, July 8.—Ninety-four per cent of the members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors out of 76,683 participating in a strike vote in this wage dispute with the Eastern railroads, are in favor of a strike. These figures were announced today at a joint meeting of union representatives and a committee of railroad managers.

The wage dispute between the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors on one hand and 51 Eastern railroads on the other took the form of a conference today.

It was conceded before the meeting that the vote would be overwhelming in favor of a strike. This does not necessarily mean that a walkout will actually take place.

The unions lost a lot of force under the Federal act, as was the case in the Bremen's demands. To the proposal the roads violently objected, and it is not known what compromise can be reached unless Congress promptly amends the Federal act increasing the board to six members. Both sides have indicated a willingness to accept a bill as amended to fix a board of three, which places heavy responsibility on the shoulders of the third, or neutral member.

When the conference convened the Erie Railroad announced that it had withdrawn from the proceedings on the ground that it would be unable to meet any advance which might result. This practically invites a strike.

The statement was signed by J. C. Stuart, vice president, and says in part:

"Similar proceedings in the past have resulted in increased wages, and while it may be possible for some roads to meet these increases the Erie Railroad is not in position to do so at present. The wage increase demands amounts to 25 per cent or a total annual cost on the basis of present figures, of practically $1,200,000."

The statement goes on to say that "certain representatives of the public" have said that manufacturers and business men in general are in sympathy with the roads under existing conditions and are willing to concede an increase in freight rates, so that it would be possible for the railroads to improve their facilities, but are decidedly opposed to paying any greater freight rates, "simply to increase the wages of organized labor, which is being fairly and properly compensated."

The Erie says it is willing to consider wages and conditions of individual roads, but will not agree to any general increase to any class of employees. The sacrifice of needed safety appliances and improved equipment. If this demand and those which will follow are to be conceded as they have been in the past, says the statement, "the officials of the Erie Company cannot be expected to join in its application. Therefore we have to decline any further participation in the proceedings under present conditions."

After the unions had submitted the result of the strike vote and reiterated their demands, the conference adjourned, and W. G. Lee for the trainmen, then announced that a conference of union heads from all the roads involved would be held here on Saturday, at which the strike vote would be confirmed and a course of action adopted. The result will be reported to the railroads on Monday.

With reference to the Erie, Mr. Lee said that that road's withdrawal would not necessarily mean that a strike would be directed against it. "We are dealing with all the roads as a unit," he said, "and if the Erie's action precipitated a strike it would not be against the Erie alone, but against all the roads."

FAST MAIL OF 1860

A Run From Hannibal to St. Joe in Four Hours

When the hardy pioneers of the white winged wagons and plodding ox teams of 1848 had demonstrated beyond all doubt that California was holding out a golden hand alert industrial capitalists prepared to meet the demand for a union between the east and west.

The slow going ox-caravan was followed by the swift stage coach. Then the rider cried out for still more rapid news from home, says the Los Angeles Times and the pony express was offered to meet the emergency.

The government pledged Russell, Majors & Waddell, freighters, the contract. If the mail was transported from St. Joseph, Mo., to Sacramento, 1950 miles, in eight days, it became a matter of high importance to succeed on the trial trip.

From the Mississippi to the Missouri the mail from the east was to come over the Hannibal & St. Joe, a northern Missouri road which had been completed Feb. 13, 1859. The test mail run was made April 30, 1860. The best engineer, the best engine and a specially selected mailcar were to carry the tissue mail to the waiting rider at St. Joseph.

"Instructions" asked Ad Clark as he climbed up the gateway of the Missouri at Hannibal the morning of the run. And J. T. K. Hayward, the stand 69 years. It was said in a lone Napoleon might have used at Austerlitz: "Chasseurs! Take for me you Austrian batteries!"

Engineer and soldier, the danger was equal. The pull was light and the junction was not always even. April is always a capricious month in Missouri—rain, sunshine and high winds, with mud at all times. The track was not ballasted. As a precautionary measure George H. Davis, the trainmaster, issued orders that all switches were to be spiked securely and no trains were to be allowed on the main line within an hour of the fast mail's time. Fuel agents at Macon and Moorsville were instructed to get ready to load up the tender with wood, so as not to decision any "You are to make a record that will delay whatever."

L. J. Coleman, agent at Macon, obeyed instructions this way: He calculated how many armloads it would take and then had as many men standing on a specially prepared platform so when the train hesitated each man emptied his arms and the train started along.

It is 205 miles from Hannibal to St. Joseph, and the run was made in a little more than four hours, or about a time rate of 50 miles an hour. No sustained run across the state on the "Joe line" has been made in shorter time.

ARRESTED IN LYNN FOR DOVER POLICE

Deputy Sheriff Goodwin of Strafford County, was here on Tuesday evening on his way to Dover, with Frank A. Spaulding who was arrested in Lynn for the Dover officers. He is charged with criminal assault on his step daughter. While waiting for the train Spaulding was locked up in the local station.

Ward was received from a reliable source on Tuesday that the night train of the Portsmouth and Dover branch, of the Boston and Maine, which was restored on Monday night would remain on the schedule for good.

MAYFLOWER WITH THE PRESIDENT ABOARD UNDER FIRE

Washington, July 8.—While both the officers of the yacht Mayflower and officials of the navy department were reticent today concerning the peril to the vessel last week, when a shell from the proving grounds, at Indian Head, Md., was said to have narrowly missed the ship, which had President Wilson aboard, it is believed an investigation of the affair will be ordered.

It was declared today that the shell itself passed over the Mayflower at a safe height, but that the danger was caused by the dislodgment from the shell of the rotating rounds, a sheet of steel 12 inches wide, which fell close to the vessel. So loud was the screech of the shot that the Mayflower's crew are said to have rushed on deck to ascertain the trouble.

At the time President Wilson, was said to be sitting on the after deck with Dr. Cary T. Grayson, his physician. So far as is known, the President made no comment or complaint, on his return to the White House.

Numerous protests have been made in the past against the firing of the big guns at Indian Head. River captains declare the lives of their passengers and crews are endangered by the trials, and, although no accident has yet occurred, they contend that there have been many narrow escapes from disaster.

NOW THOUGHT TO HAVE DROWNED

William H. Hadwell, the naval pilot on his way to the naval proving grounds, who leaped from the deck of the steamer City of Memphis of the Savannah line Sunday night near the Commonwealth pier, South Boston, is believed to have drowned. No trace of him has been found by the naval authorities.

PLANTED MILLIONS OF EGGS

Washington, July 9. The year just closed established a record for the United States bureau of Fisheries. In the number of fish eggs taken and later planted. It ran to the enormous total of 3,646,000,000, which broke the record made in the previous year by 173,000,000. The largest number of any one kind was of flounder, of which 800,000,000 eggs were planted.

During the year there was an increased capture of black spotted trout, Chinook salmon, brook trout, striped bass and whitefish eggs and a decrease in those of the lake herring, pike perch, shad, yellow perch and lobster.

To increase the supply of lobsters along the New England coast the bureau is considering the establishment in Rhode Island of a plant for lobster breeding. It is proposed to keep the young lobsters in captivity until they can defend themselves against attack or until they have passed what the experts call the fourth stage of their existence. The bureau now has two lobster hatcheries, one in Maine, the other in Massachusetts but at neither are there facilities for breeding work.
